FOREWORD

Things that we have loved stay by us
Though months, nay years, shall steal away:
Wistaria, ivy, grove and Chapel,
Friends and duties, loiterings, play.
Then in our hearts' most secret places
We'll ever find well guarded there
A home for thee, oh dear St. Mary's,
Alma Mater, loved and fair.

So may for us these pictured pages
Bring before us when we ponder
These dear days of life together,
Days so bright with faith and wonder;
Those long hours we spent in idling,
And the work time swiftly passed,
Something of their charm and fragrance
May within this volume last.

(Tune: "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms")

St. Mary's! wherever thy daughters may be
 They love thy high praises to sing,
 And tell of thy beauties of campus and tree
 Around which sweet memories cling;
 They may wander afar, out of reach of thy name,
 Afar, out of sight of thy grove,
 But the thought of St. Mary's aye kindles a flame
 Of sweet recollections and love.

Beloved St. Mary's! how great is our debt!
 Thou hast cared for thy daughters full well;
 They can never thy happy instructions forget,
 Nor fail of thy virtues to tell.
 The love that they feel is a heritage pure;
 An experience wholesome and sweet.
 Through fast rolling years it will grow and endure;
 Be a lamp and a guide to their feet.

May the future unite all the good of thy past
 With the best that new knowledge can bring.
 Ever onward and upward thy course! To the last
 Be thou steadfast in every good thing.
 Generations to come may thy fair daughters still
 Fondly think on thy halls and thy grove
 And carry thy teachings—o'er woodland and hill—
 Of earnestness, wisdom, and love.

The Anniversary Year

The Seventy-fifth Year of St. Mary's!
The Fiftieth Year of "Miss Katie" at St. Mary's!
The Twentieth Year of the Church Ownership of St. Mary's!
The Tenth Year of the Present Rectorship!

Truly this has been in the history of St. Mary's a very year of Anniversaries, and in the Anniversary Celebration on May 11-12 we have tried to do honor to the occasion.

The Anniversary Celebration

In the Anniversary Celebration, following the spirit of St. Mary's rather than the more formal arrangement usual in colleges on such anniversaries, chief stress was laid on the welcoming back of the Old Girls by the St. Mary's girls of the present, and the entertainment was largely an attempt to revive in all St. Mary's Girls the recollections of the scenes of their St. Mary's and make them realize themselves an ever integral part of the School.

The program was the following:

FRIDAY, MAY 11

8:30 p. m. In the Auditorium. Bishop Cheshire, President of the Board of Trustees, presiding. Addresses by Dr. W. S. Currell, President of the University of South Carolina, and by Miss Emilie Watts McVea, St. Mary's, '84, President Sweetbrier College.

SATURDAY, MAY 12

8:00 a. m. In the Chapel. Celebration of the Holy Communion (with music). The Rector, celebrant.

10:30 a. m. In the Auditorium. Student Literary Exercises. Brief historical speeches by representatives of the Literary Societies, and announcement of the winners in the Inter-society Competition for the best original St. Mary's essay, story and verses, with the reading of the winning contributions.

2:00 p. m. In Clement Hall. The Rector, toastmaster. Alumnae Luncheon in the Dining Room, followed by brief after-luncheon speeches.

5:00 p. m. In the Grove. Anniversary Festival, Miss Thomas, Mistress of Ceremonies. A St. Mary's pageant, with the entire School participating, with procession reviewed by the visitors at the outdoor stage in the grove near the South Walk and the special features staged at that point.

8:30 p. m. In the Auditorium. The Chorus Class, under the direction of Mr. Owen, in a presentation of Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "Patience."

This was the Third Anniversary Celebration on a large scale in the history of St. Mary's.

On June 5-9, 1892, at the Commencement Season, in the later years of Dr. Bennett Smedes, the Fiftieth Anniversary of the School was celebrated.

On April 20, 1910, the Hundredth Anniversary of the birth of Dr. Aldert Smedes, the Founder, was fittingly observed at the School, with a large attendance of visiting alumnae, who were entertained in the School buildings.

REV. ALDERT SMEDES, D.D., 1810-1877

Founder (1842) and First Rector (1842-1877) of St. Mary's School

At the time of the death of Dr. Smedes a tribute was paid to his memory by the Bishop in these words: "I take this occasion to express publicly, as my judgment, that Dr. Smedes accomplished more for the advancement of the Church in this Diocese, and for the promotion of the best interests of society within its limits, than any other man who ever lived in it. Under his care, and very much as the result of his intelligence, his firmness and his tender affection for them, there went out from St. Mary's School, Raleigh, every year a number of young girls who, in culture, in refinement, and still more in elevation of moral and religious character, would compare favorably with the pupils of any other institution in this country. He knew not only how to teach, but how to govern, and to make himself honored as well as loved; and to constrain his pupils to feel that the years spent under his care were at the same time the happiest and most useful of their lives. He has gone to his reward, but his work remains, and will remain from generation to generation." (Haywood's "Bishops of North Carolina," page 193.)

The Seventy-fifth Anniversary

It was on May 12th, 1842, that Rev. Aldert Smedes first threw open the doors of St. Mary's for the reception of students, and except for the vacation periods, those doors have been (at least figuratively) continuously open, the War Between the States, with all its hardships, having caused no interruption in the work of St. Mary's.

The facts of the history of the School are published in many other places. The reproduction of the first advertisement of the School will here serve to take our thoughts "across the years."

THE FIRST ADVERTISEMENT OF ST. MARY'S

(Early in the year 1842 Dr. Smedes issued a circular announcement of the approaching opening of what was to be St. Mary's, though without mentioning a name for the school. The same announcement appeared in the papers of that time. This circular follows.)

The Rev. ALDERT SMEDES, of the City of New York, designs to open a School for Young Ladies, in the City of Raleigh, N. C., on the 12th day of May next.

This Institution is to furnish a thorough and elegant Education, equal to the best that can be obtained in the City of New York, or in any Northern School.

The School Buildings, situated in a beautiful and elevated Oak grove, furnish the most spacious accommodations. The Dormitories are separated into Alcoves, for two Young Ladies each, of a construction to secure privacy and at the same time a free circulation of air.

Every article of furniture is provided by the School, except bedding (beds will be furnished) and towels.

TERMS.—For Board (including washing and every incidental expense), with Tuition in English, Latin, &c., $100 per Session, payable in advance.

The Extra charges will be for French, Music, Drawing, Painting, and Ornamental Needle-work, at the usual prices of the Masters. There will be no other extra charge.

Pupils will be admitted at any age desired.

No Pupil, except by a written request of the Parent or Guardian to the Rector of the School, will be allowed to have an account at any Store or Shop in the City. A disregard of this prohibition will be followed by an immediate dismissal from the school.

Day-Scholars will be received from such Parents or Guardians as reside in the place.

The year will be divided into two terms of five months each. The former commencing, after the first term on the 15th of May, and terminating on the 15th of October. The latter commencing on the 20th of November and terminating on the 20th of April.

To Miss Katie

To long for truth, to try to realize
The highest that we see—that is the noblest
Living, and that, dear friend, in all these years
Your high sincerity, your love of love,
Your hatred of deceit and scorn of all pretense
Have helped us to desire.

Thinking of you,
We know that love and truth are real,
That God and good are the eternal verities,
Noisy ambition, hard won fame, the wish
For recognition even of worthy work,
Beside these vital truths fade into nothingness.
To do good, and to distribute of your love
And of your strength to them that need, that
Has been your life. And with such service,
God is pleased.

Emilie W. McVea. 1900.

Miss Kate McKimmon, known affectionately as "Miss Katie" to all St. Mary's girls, is this year rounding out a half century of devoted service to the School.

Entering as a little girl in 1867, from pupil she became teacher, and has continued her teaching without interruption since, being now in charge of the Primary School.

As "Dormitory Mother" she won the hearts of her girls for many years, and her work for and in the Chapel has been a very special part of her.

Unreconstructed Southerner but loyal American, whole hearted in her devotion to School and to Church, St. Mary's would hardly seem St. Mary's without "Miss Katie."

Miss McVea paid tribute to her in the poem published above on her fiftieth birthday.

The Opening of St. Mary's

ON THE 12th of May, 1842, a bright sunshiny morning, Rev. Aldert Smedes threw open the doors of St. Mary's for the first day of school. The opening service was held in the parlor, and we can imagine the scene that took place: Rev. Aldert Smedes, tall, graceful and impressive, stood before a little band of thirteen boarding pupils and about an equal number of day scholars, with those who were to help him in his work—Madame Clement, Miss Maria Thompson, Miss Long, and Mr. and Mrs. Brandt—and led them in a short service, the first service at St. Mary's. Think of the services that have taken place since that May morning so long ago! And does it not make you love and admire the earnest man who had faith to undertake the establishment of a Church School for girls, thus making it possible for the many things which St. Mary's has done and stood for—is doing and standing for?

As no records have been preserved of the happenings of the first weeks of the life of the School, we have to pass over them, but not without imagining to ourselves that perhaps, after all, those thirteen little girls did and felt very much as we ourselves did and felt our first weeks at St. Mary's. For who can look back to that first week without recalling the strangeness of everything, and the times when those big lumps just would come up in the throat at the thought of home? Still, the work of St. Mary's had begun, and, in the years that followed, Dr. Smedes succeeded in establishing the School on a firmer and firmer basis.

Leaves from My Diary

August 3, 1863.

Father and I have just reached St. Mary's after a long and tiresome journey. We left our home in Salisbury early day before yesterday morning. As we were to drive to Salem in our carriage, mother decided to go that far with us; for it was at Salem that we were to take the coach. It was a long trip, but I was glad every minute of it, and the end of it came too soon—when I had to tell mother good-bye. We did not have much time to wait, as the stage was about ready to leave. They stored my trunk away in the boot, and father and I climbed in. It was fun at first, but I soon grew weary of looking out of the window and amused myself by reading about those funny Fezziwigs in "Pickwick Papers." We reached Durham station and father told me that our journey was almost finished. We finally reached Raleigh and rode out to St. Mary's in the Yarborough omnibus. Father left me right after we got there, and how hard it was to tell him good-bye! I tried not to cry; but I don't know when I shall see him again, as he returns to join his company tomorrow.

August 4, 1863.

I slept in a long room last night with many little beds in it. I have met Dr. Smedes and I love him already. Miss Evertson scares me most to death, and she is so strict and sarcastic! But I saw one girl run up and sit on her knee, so maybe she won't be so stern after I know her. I went to classes today, and I am going to work hard!

August 15, 1863.

I have been so busy that I have not had time to write in my diary for a long time. This afternoon we sewed and knitted for the soldiers of "The Ellis Light Artillery," and we are going to do it every Saturday afternoon. I am learning to knit and I am getting on finely. I dropped only ten stitches this afternoon!

October 20, 1863.

Isn't it funny how you get used to things? If I had thought at the beginning of this dreadful war that the time would come when I would possess but three dresses, with two of them homespun and the other calico, why, I think I should have died right then and there. But we girls are just as happy as if we had on silks and satins. We lead an uneventful life, but we do have a good time. Every afternoon we play ball in the grove at recess, and we get so hot and mussed up that Madame always scolds us when we rush breathless into French recitation, which comes directly after recess. None of us ever thinks about grumbling when we have sorghum and bread time and again. Why, if it is good enough for Dr. and Mrs. Smedes to eat—and they are two of the best people in the world—I know that we should be glad to eat it. And sorghum tastes mighty good at those candy stews Mrs. Smedes has.

October 23, 1863.

One of the girls told me that Mildred Lee, daughter of our beloved Robert E. Lee, is coming tomorrow. I know we shall hear lots of interesting things from her. Betty Meade told Miss Evertson that she was coming, and all she said was, "Suppose she does come, she's no more than an ordinary mortal like the rest of us." But, anyhow, I know I shall be proud to be with her. And Mrs. Jefferson Davis, who has been here all summer with her four children, is expecting to leave soon. People come from far and near to receive the warm hospitality which Dr. Smedes so kindly offers.

July 20, 1864.

Never shall I forget this Sunday. Yesterday we knew that a fierce battle was raging, and lots of the girls had near relatives in the army. Our dear Dr. Smedes's son, Edward, was with the forces engaged in battle. This morning, right before the end of service, when Dr. Smedes was pronouncing the benediction, a messenger appeared at the door of the Chapel. We all guessed that he had brought bad news as we marched out of the Chapel. Madame Gouye went to the messenger and got the telegram from him, sending it to Dr. Smedes by his little daughter. Soon we learned that the telegram announced that Edward Smedes had been killed in the battle. How brave our Rector has been through all his sadness! This is the second of his sons to die for the Cause.

Oh, I am so scared, and I want to go home! Those horrid old Yankees are camped right out in our grove! I don't know what they will do to us. I saw one of the soldiers walking around, and I just walked up to him and I told him what I thought of him for coming up here and scaring us so.

St. Mary's School, Raleigh, N. C., April 26, 1883.

My Dear Little Daughter:—I am enjoying my visit to your sister Elizabeth very much, and I wish that you could be here with me.

When I arrived last Friday Elizabeth was very glad to see me, but her mind seemed to be very preoccupied. I at last found out that she was thinking of the dreaded abstract of the Friday's Chapel address that she had to write. When she finished that I thought everything would be all right, but she told me that the most trying event of the whole week took place on Friday afternoon, when they had the "reading-out." I decided to slip in quietly and observe the "reading-out." All of the teachers and students assembled in the School Room; the teachers sat on the platform in the front of the room. One by one they rose, and read out the week's honor roll; and you will be glad to know that Elizabeth's name was read out by all her teachers.

Yesterday afternoon it was very cool, it almost felt like a day in early winter—and I wish you could have been here to see the funny sight of Walking Hour. When the bell rang girls came running from the Rocks and Main Building, and every girl had on a shawl! Red shawls, blue shawls, gray shawls—every kind and color of shawl imaginable. They walked up and down all around the Grove, and they looked like so many nuns in their long shawls,—but nuns would not have on such gaily colored wraps, would they? I happened to be down near the gate, and a man, evidently a stranger in Raleigh, stopped and politely asked if this were the Insane Asylum!

Rising bell rings at six o'clock and we have dinner at half-past three. I know you would like the way we have luncheon at noon. The girls all file down to the store room in a long procession, and there they find four big waiters, two filled with apples and two filled with piles of crackers, three in each pile; then the housekeeper hands an apple and three crackers to each girl, and, as a rare treat, there is cheese to go with the crackers. Then the girls may go out to the grove if they choose and eat lunch with their "chums."

Elizabeth rooms in Miss Kate McKimmon's Dormitory. The girls call the Dormitory "McKimmonsville," and they do have so much fun.

You and Aunt Nancy can fix up a box and send it to surprise Elizabeth. "Getting boxes" is one of the very best things that can happen to a school girl, and the bigger the box, the better it is.

With a heart full of love for my little girl,

Your Mother.

THE CONFIRMATION GROUP IN THE PARLOR

The plate from which this photograph of the "Confirmation Group" is reproduced is furnished the Muse through the courtesy of Mr. Marshall DeLancey Haywood. It is used in his book, "The Bishops of North Carolina," where he says of the picture:

"About the year 1844, the Reverend Aldert Smedes, D.D., Rector of Saint Mary's School at Raleigh, engaged William Hart to paint a full length portrait of Bishop Ives. This portrait (which still hangs in the parlor at St. Mary's) represents him in the act of administering the rite of confirmation to a class of four girls."

It will be remembered that it was Bishop Ives who first interested Dr. Smedes in founding St. Mary's.

This portrait has always been an object of special interest to St. Mary's girls, and the question of who were the originals of the girls painted in the group is an ever interesting subject of discussion now carried on in the third generation.

The original of the "Stage Coach Picture," so often used in the Muse to contrast the old days with later ones, was a drawing by Mrs. Gustave Blessner. Mr. Blessner, Musical Director at St. Mary's in the '40s, had it lithographed for use on the cover of some waltzes which he composed and had published in 1845. On the title page of the music, in addition to the Stage Coach Picture, was printed: "The Flowers of the South. A Collection of Characteristic Waltzes, Composed for the Piano, and Dedicated to the Young Ladies of St. Mary's School, Raleigh, N. C., by Gustave Blessner."

Madame Clement was the first French teacher at St. Mary's, and her little daughter Eleanor accompanied her to St. Mary's and became first a pupil and then a teacher here. Later on she established a very successful girls' school at Germantown (Philadelphia), Pa. At her death she left St. Mary's a $5,000 fund to establish a scholarship in honor of her mother, and also made St. Mary's the residuary legatee of her estate. From this bequest of $35,000, the funds were derived for the building of Clement Hall, which was named in Miss Clement's honor.

Second Rector of St. Mary's School, 1877-1897

"I am sure that every girl who has been fortunate enough to count herself a St. Mary's girl during the regime of Dr. Bennett Smedes has felt the same sense of loving protection."

"Strictly the head of his household, he was a companion of infinite tenderness, sympathy, and understanding, a man to lean upon, to look up to, to thank God for."

"This old-time courtesy never left him in the performance of the slightest duty or amenity of life."

"His firmness, his modesty, his mental attainments, his appreciation of the beautiful, and of brilliancy and wit are well known to all who knew him."

Miss Emilie Watts McVea, S. M. S., '84, the Alumnae Speaker at the Anniversary Celebration, is one of the most distinguished of the Graduates of St. Mary's, and one of them most immediately connected with it for many years.

She graduated with the Class of '84, one of the best remembered of St. Mary's classes, and was for many years first teacher and then Lady Principal, in the Rectorship of Dr. Bennett Smedes.

After leaving St. Mary's she studied at Cornell University, took her Bachelor's and Master's degrees at George Washington University, Washington, D. C., became Dean of Women at the University of Cincinnati, and in 1916 assumed the Presidency of Sweetbrier College.

The Alumnæ Association of St. Mary's was established in 1880 and meets annually at Commencement. It has done effective work in aiding the progress of the School.

The Alumnæ Chapters meet in their several towns and cities on November 1st. All Saints, which is celebrated as Founders' Day, and on May 12th, the date of the first opening of St. Mary's, which is observed as Alumnæ Day.

The most important special work accomplished by the Alumnæ Association has been the establishment of the Smedes Memorial Scholarship, to the memory of the Founder and his son, the second Rector of St. Mary's; the rebuilding of the Chapel, and the establishment of the Mary IredeLL Fund and the Kate McKimmon Fund.

Americans All

As the Anniversary Celebration has been the dominant feature of the School Year in St. Mary's affairs, so the onward march of the country in the world crisis has lent a special and dominating touch to the school life in its relation to things outside.

The work for Belgian Relief, the enthusiasm displayed in the First Aid Classes of the Red Cross, with eighty members of the School completing the course, the great interest in the presentation of the Flag, were each indicative of the patriotic feeling that stirs St. Mary's deeply.

Possibly the American incident of the year which will stand out longest in memory was the exchange of telegrams with President Wilson through his daughter, Mrs. William G. McAdoo, now the wife of Secretary McAdoo, and our "Nell Wilson" of 1906-08.

The patriotic meeting of the School on the evening of April 3d aroused much enthusiasm, and at it the resolution was adopted, the reply following in due course.

Mrs. Wm. G. McAdoo,

Raleigh, N. C., April 3, 1917.

1709 Massachusetts Avenue, Washington, D. C.

The students of St. Mary's School have tonight adopted unanimously the following resolution:

"We, the girls and teachers of St. Mary's School, wish through you to extend to our President our wholehearted sympathy for him in this crisis, and to pledge to him and to our country our loyal service.

"It has been with deepest admiration that we have watched and applauded each move that he has made in his wise guidance of our country and his firm championship of the right."

The bonds are firm and enduring
Which bind our hearts in one,
Ties of affection and friendship,
Of interest, work and fun.
And living with face toward the future,
We've worked with heart and with soul
Till we've come to our graduation,
Most eagerly sought for goal.

So now at our happy Commencement
We're full of thanks and of zeal,
For we have with us the teachings
Which St. Mary's has joy to reveal.
May her precepts and ideals stay with us,
Keep us ever faithful and true;
May they make our lives each of service,
Our hearts with firm strength endue.

Farewell, then, dear Alma Mater,
Our days now with you are past,
But time's passing will never sever
Our devotion and love steadfast.
And though we are sad at parting
Ours a quiet joy is too,
Since memory will make ever dearer
The love that we bear to you.

THE MUSE

Who's Who in the Class of 1917

VIRGINIA CAROLINE ALLEN. "Miss Caroline," for thus we have to call her on account of the complication of Virginia Allens in our class. To others she appears dignified, but we who know her so well contradict this, for she is always one of the first to enter into our Senior Hall pranks and jokes. "She hath an agile tongue," well said by one of the "Freshies," but if the Library walls could talk they would tell us even more than the "Freshies," who study there at night.

VIRGINIA POPE ALLEN, better known as "White Virginia," is the college member of our class. She came to us from Randolph-Macon with very high class ideas, and it caused us some trouble to bring her down to our simple ways of life in Senior Hall. At times she forgets that she is not at Randolph-Macon now, for she will assume certain privileges during study-hour. She is not all fun, but is a good student and grand classmate.

EMMA HUDGINS BADHAM. "Reddie." One minute she is glad, the next she is mad. Some say it is due to the disposition characteristic of "red-heads," but we know the true cause to be those eternal "Muse dues" which she is always collecting. When it comes to duty she is right there.

THE MUSE

FRANCES HOWE CHEATHAM. "Doodley" is our "most lovable" member, and a remarkable talent is her bass voice. Oftentimes it is heard in deep, melodious tones to Alice's accompaniment, and the rest of us listen, realizing how true it is that "music hath charms." She is always amusing, but mostly so when she is angry. In all her fantastic moods, in all her quaint common sense, "Doodley" has for three years been, and will be always, "most lovable."

JEANET FAIRLEY. Fun, good time, lots to eat, these make up Jean who is always bright and happy. Everybody likes to have her about because she always brings life with her. Jean's recent hobby is moving picture scenarios which she devours daily, and we hope that she may some day reach her aspiration.

GEORGIA FOSTER. Georgia is known most widely for her "unselfishness," but those with whom she is most constantly associated know that this is only one of the many laudable characteristics of her make-up. It is the regret of Senior Hall that "C" Math. claimed so much of her time, but we have managed often enough to entice her from the "beloved" study to enjoy her true spirit for a good time. Her dramatic ability rose to its height in the mid-term play, and the glory that she gained for being a good-looking man entirely prevented the tragedy which her make-up work had almost made of her life.

ELMYRA JENKINS. Elmyra, or, as her fastidious taste prefers, "Myra," must have been thought by the girls of four years ago "a very sweet little girl," but as time went by deeper and more laudable characteristics came to light. Every one soon discovered that she was determined to make her mark. When this determination shows itself it is always accompanied by a facial expression which only the Seniors know. However, it has proven a very good attribute, for Elmyra usually "gits there."

THE MUSE

GOLDA FOY JUDD. Golda is the only "day pupil" in our class, and well she uses this great privilege. She is not with us much, for as soon as English N is over she is seen no more. But for this she is a good mixer, and we feel that this accomplishment will soon remove her from our number. She must be in love! Who ever saw one so carefree that was not? She is surely no "Maggie Gulliver," for she looks for no trouble and finds little.

ALICE COHN LATHAM. Alice really has much respect for feelings, and even she has on a few occasions shown emotion, yet from her career you would judge statistics and offices consume all her thought, for she has been voted our "most influential," "best all round," and "best dancer," and has offices which to name were too long to tell. She exerts her potent influence in stirring up spirit and she greatly admires "the good old days," perhaps only less than that remarkable child, Annie Cameron.

EVA IRENE PEELE. "Peva Eele" alias "The Bell(e) of Senior Hall," has a very keen sense of hearing, having never once missed the first peal of the rising bell, and never once failed to tell the Hall. Eva's uprightness is shown in everything, even in her very bearing as she leads out Chapel line. With all this she is the best hearted member of the class.

ELEANOR RELYEA. Eleanor is the youngest of our class in years, but not in knowledge. For two years now she has held the coveted first place in Miss Thomas's English. However, we who know her well fear she has a natural weakness for English anyway, for somehow, though she sits on the front row, Eleanor always manages to be the last one out and to "get in" a private word or two with Miss Thomas. But she is ever ready to entertain us with her mandolin and marvelous tales of "up the country," and we have to forgive her monopoly of "Miss Eleanor T." The long and short of it must both be taken into consideration, you see, in this write up.

THE MUSE

ANNIE HUSKE ROBINSON. Annie is the possessor of various talents. She swims, plays tennis and basketball, recites, and performs upon every musical instrument she can find, especially upon the ukulele and guitar, and her voice often breaks into our peaceful slumbers after lights. She is followed by a horde of "crushes" to whom she is, as well as to us, "Sweet Annie."

NELLIE COOPER ROSE. At the pageant Nellie proved herself a typical jester, and the Seniors of '17 rejoiced at the prospect of having such a joker to liven up the monotony of school life, but, alas! The Nellie of '17 is very different from the Nellie of '15 and '16. Although she has not entirely lost her ability for amusing she has now deeper interests to occupy her time, the deepest of which is "the great war," and we have to admit that she is the most loyal and devoted admirer of "Wilson" in the Senior Class.

RUBIE LOGAN THORN. Since being taken for the Lady Principal she has tried very hard to be dignified and keep up her "rep.," but her sense of humor along with the comic parts that she takes on the stage make it rather difficult. Most of her time is spent in trying to keep her roommate out of mischief.

ETHEL CAROLINA YATES. "Cupid," as she is called by her friends, has only been among us two years, but in that time she has proven to us her sterling qualities. She, too, has a quantity of red hair, but she evidently keeps the corresponding disposition well under control, for she seldom gives way to it. With her perseverance, especially as to Algebra, we are sure that she will make good.

A Might-be Prophecy of the Class of 1917

"There'll come a time some day."

Ah, strange are the changes that have come over us,
Amazing, ridiculous too!
Each is now just the opposite of what she once was,
And as such I describe them to you.

Virginia C. Allen, outspoken and tall,
Now lets her friends have their own way;
While our friend, Eva Peele, the society belle,
Has the world as it were, in her sway.

Emma Badham no longer is worried these days,
But all smiling is wholly carefree;
While Alice, most proper, with each hair tucked in place
Has a hen-pecking husband-to-be.

Elmyra, true, thrives on "for goodness sake" still,
But has won herself glorious "rep.";
Golda Judd, in class meeting so conspicuous of yore,
Now quite bubbles over with "pep."

Jean Fairley, of course, is a quaint little lady,
Prim, proper, particular too;
While Ethel, loud voiced and in manner outrageous,
Laughs and stirs up a great how-dy'e-do.

Virginia "White" Allen has at last quite recovered
From the taps on her window pane;
But Nellie, the Rose of the class in our youth,
Greets our jokes now with lofty disdain.

Georgia Foster, once "perfect," has fallen from grace,
And is happy if still rather "queer";
While "Doodley" 's forgotten the way to say "ugh!"
And writes essays for fun like a dear.

A much thinner Rubie, a practical banker,
Scorns Poetry and English and such;
And Athletic Anne, now a most scornful "fan,"
Hates music and dinners "Sehr" much.

"Aunt Eleanor" Relyea, at length sobered down,
Is settled to sweet domesticity;

Aren't you sure now that each of the class will enjoy
A most dee-lightful brand of felicity?

The Literary Society Activities

The Literary Societies have been leading organizations at St. Mary's since their establishment. Named after three leading southern poets—Edgar Allan Poe, Sidney Lanier, and Abram Ryan—they hold weekly meetings, with special Inter-society Meetings to celebrate the special holiday occasions—Thanksgiving, Lee's Birthday, Washington's Birthday, etc. For fifteen years they have held annual Inter-society Debates, and the past two years they have cooperated with the English Department, under the guidance of Miss Thomas, in an Inter-Society Contest in writing. The contest includes poetry, story and essay.

The Societies choose annually the Commencement Marshals, the Chief Marshal being chosen by each in turn.

The Anniversary Contest

Annie H. Robinson, $\Sigma \Lambda$

Alice Latham, E A Π

Aline Hughes, A P

THE SPEAKERS

As a part of the celebration of the 75th Anniversary on the morning of May 12th the speaking contest between the chosen representatives of the three Literary Societies was held, and the winning papers in the Inter-Society contest were read.

The general theme of the whole celebration was "St. Mary's," and the speeches and papers all dealt with phases of that theme.

The Anniversary Speakers were:

For Sigma Lambda: Annie H. Robinson, '17—"St. Mary's."

For Epsilon Alpha Pi: Alice Cohn Latham, '17—"Dr. Aldert Smedes"

For Alpha Rho: Aline Elizabeth Hughes, '18—"The Power of Personality"

Miss Hughes was declared the winner.

The Winners in the Contest were:

The Historical Sketch: (1) Katharine Drane, '18, $\Sigma \Lambda$ —"Three Scenes from the Life of St. Mary's."

The Poem: (1) Aline E. Hughes, '18, A P—"The Original Thirteen."

(2) Henrietta Morgan, '18, E A Π —"The Sacred Spot."

The 1917 Debates

Saturday, March 31: Sigma Lambda vs. Alpha Rho

Resolved, That St. Mary's should have student self-government with faculty supervision.

Rubie Thorn, '17, and Katharine Drane, '18, Sigma Lambda, Negative, defeated Sara Wood, '18, and Katharine Darden, '20, Alpha Rho, Affirmative.

Wednesday, April 11: Alpha Rho vs. Epsilon Alpha Pi

Resolved, That the country is a better location for a school like St. Mary's than the city.

Frances Hillman, '19, and Estelle Ravenel, '19, Alpha Rho, Affirmative, defeated Virginia P. Allen, '17, and Agnes Pratt, '18, Epsilon Alpha Pi, Negative.

Wednesday, April 18: Epsilon Alpha Pi vs. Sigma Lambda

Resolved, That the Improvement Fund now being raised for St. Mary's should be spent on building new buildings before remodeling the present buildings.

Bessie Folk, '18, and Nancy Woolford, '20, Epsilon Alpha Pi, Affirmative, defeated Emma Badham, '17, and Marian Drane, '20, Sigma Lambda, Negative.

The Thirteen Originals

(Metre: Alfred Noyes's "Forty Singing Seamen")

By Aline Hughes, '18

(The Prize Verses in the Anniversary Contest)

Away from home and Mother off to boarding school we rolled,
Thirteen wondering schoolgirls in the big stage coach.
The coach got there at twilight, and through the grove we bowled,
Wondering if the Teachers had noted our approach.

But the door was open wide,

Sending golden light outside,

And we thought they must have noted our approach;
Must have long been warned of us by rumblings from the coach.

But not for long we wondered if perhaps we had been heard,
We thirteen wondering schoolgirls at our Alma Mater's door,
For a lady, sweet and motherly, with smile and cheering word,
And a gentleman, whose smile we'll ne'er forget till life is o'er,

Came quickly out to meet us,

With kindly words to greet us,

And to lead us gently through our dear St. Mary's door;
For the first time then to lead us through our dear St. Mary's door.

She led us to our dear old "dorm," and showed each one her alcove there;
They showed us through the parlor with its picture covered walls.
The homesickness in our throats and eyes was very hard to bear,
But even in our homesickness we loved those rooms and halls.

The Faculty were cheerful

For they knew that we felt tearful,

And they tried to cheer us up as they led us through the halls;
Yes, they tried to entertain us as they showed us all the halls.

We learned to love those dear people and East Rock chapel small;
We'll carry all their pictures in our minds where'er we go;
But when we were just schoolgirls, without a great life call
How could we then prophesy how our dear school would grow?

We were schoolgirls just like others;

We were not then your grandmothers;

We were thirteen wondering schoolgirls, so how could we then know?
We were the thirteen first St. Mary's girls. Of course we couldn't know.

THE MUSE

We could not know that '17 would hail and celebrate
The day when first we came, just five and seventy years ago;
That after years they would recall that happy, happy date,
As thirteen wondering schoolgirls of course we did not know.
 In long past happy springs
 We played where you have Wings.
Of Clement Hall of course we could not know;
Of all the joys of '17 of course we could not know.

Girls of '17, we originals would say
Our blessings now are with you as you each one ought to know,
As we have loved St. Mary's may you ever love it too,
And carry on her teachings as on your way you go.
 If we had known of you
 We might have been more true,
But we were only schoolgirls, so of course we did not know;
The first thirteen St. Mary's girls, of course we could not know.

A Sacred Spot

(Henrietta Morgan, '18, E A II)

Todays have glided into yesterdays,
And years have passed, swift-winged—three-score and ten of them and five.
A host of nights have brought their stars and shades,
A host of days their "good to be alive":—
Some gay with Summer's flowers and light,
Some dark with Winter's long, gray shroud.

Still among the dim, blue Southern hills
There lies a spot whose birth is lost in days of Auld Lang Syne,
A School, a seat of Virtue, Love and Truth;
To those who lingered once about it, now a wayside shrine,
A place to honor days of long ago.

Why does this spot survive the flight of years?
And many youthful steps still travel 'long its cool green paths?
The oaks stand forth in kingly strength and might—
Dark and sharp amid the glow of Winter Even's sunset baths,
Or still and peaceful 'neath the wealth of spring,
The greenness of the dark, dim Summer wood?

As thus they nestle 'round this spot—this School—
How have those oaks stood straight and tall 'mid boasting roars of winds?
The things of God—they last forever—
The Rock of Worship, bound with clinging vines of truth;—
That's why the oaks and School have stood together.

Ye, who come from far and near to bring
Your love for what is bound about with cords of Truth,
Bethink you of your common sod:—
Behold the Stars and Stripes of this, your Native Land,
And see your School, your Country, and your God.

(Second Prize Verses in the Anniversary Contest.)

Nonsense Rhymes

A most charming tatter named Pratt
Loved to chatter as well as to tat;
But though chatting while tatting
And tatting while chatting,
She was sure to be smiling, that Pratt.

Nellie Rose at daybreak,
Nellie Rose at noon,
Nellie Rose, you may be sure, at night;
Should Nellie cease to rise
'Twould cause us all surprise,
But Anne would have a really truly fright.

Of course you've seen a house fly 'cross a river,
You may have heard a living Laughing house,
But tell me if you dare,
What's neither here nor there—
Have you ever seen a Henrietta mouse?

Arlene's a leading tennis sharp,
Alleyne loves Senior Hall,
The Infirmary without Susan Smith
Could hardly run at all.

Butler haunts the Library,
Seems to like the books;
Annie at the crushes
'S casting scornful looks;
A. Taylor in the Grill Room,
Cooks and cooks and cooks.

Louise is fond of dollies
And Cattie likes a drum,
But B. Folk loves to sit behind
The Auditorium.

Alice had a little book,
A Red Cross Book, you know,
And everywhere that Alice went
That book was sure to go.
To classes, dinner, shopping, lunch,
It was against the rule,
But pass she must that dread exam.
Or mortify the School.

FACULTY KODAKS

To St. Mary's Chapel

Annie Sutton Cameron, '16

Once more within thy sacred walls
We meet, but not alone.
The hearts of all who held thee dear
Meet with us here as one.
We feel their silent blessing
Upon us as we pray.
The hopes and prayers that once were theirs
Still live in us today.

For thee they labored, thee they strove,
They loved thee and passed on,
Leaving to us an heritage
Of all that they had won.
A sacred charge they gave us
In trust divine and deep.
Thine honor and thy name they left
For us to guard and keep.

Thou art to us the token
Of that we hold most dear,
Mute bond of love unbroken,
Thy sheltering arms we near.
Thou dost our love enkindle,
Our loyal hearts enroll
In kinship stronger than of blood,
The kinship of the soul.

And through the discord of the world,
Thy music rising clear,
Dispels the doubt that once we had,
Casts out our craven fear.
Hopes by defeat once shattered
And sullied with the dust,
We pledge again at thy dear name,
In holy love and trust.

Like these who loved and labored,
Led by thy steadfast light,
We pass from thee with strengthened hands
To battle for the right.
And as we strive to follow
The pathway they have trod,
We pray God's Peace be ever thine,
Oh little house of God,

Finis

Here then, old friend, we "Finis" write.
Perhaps you're glad, we hope you're sad
At closing down this cover—
Not because you pathos find
Or anything of tears the mover,
But just because we hope you mind
That "Sixteen-Seventeen" fun is over.
